Sculpture at Evergreen:

Two Outdoor Exhibitions in 2000 and 2002

Lecture by:

Cindy Kelly

Friday, May 30th, 2:00 p.m., Auditorium

Cindy Kelly is the former director and curator (1997-2002) of the Johns Hopkins University Evergreen Museum & Library and Homewood House. She is the author of the Outdoor Sculpture in Baltimore: A Historical Guide to Public Art in the Monumental City and served as the Visual Arts Program Director at the Maryland State Arts Council where she designed programs for contemporary artists and ran the state's new public art program. Her work today focuses on conserving contemporary public art (mostly sculpture) in Baltimore.
